Tools
These tools let you annotate the document
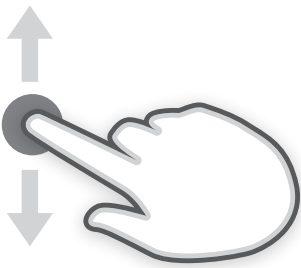

Done
Once you are finished editing, tap the done button to return to all assignments

Rubrics
This is where you can give grades to your students

Library
Here is where any annotations that you have saved will live, click on an annotation in the library to add it to the current document

To scroll through the document, make sure none of the annotation tools are selected, and then drag on the paper

When you are ready to send off your annotations to the course coordinator, tap the publish button on the assignment screen, select the assignments you wish to send, and tap the upload button

To move an annotation, tap on it once. Tap again to deselect the annotation. If you wish to delete an annotation, or save it to the library, tap and hold on the annotation.

Audio
To help you manage your audio, here is a list of all annotations in the document. Please don't forget to turn off your recordings.

Welcome to Markup

This is a quick guide to get you acquainted with this in-development piece of software.

As this software is beta, you may from time to time run into some issues. If you do, please let us know at uqadekke@uq.edu.au and justin@marrington.net

Please be sure to run the testflight application every so often to check for updates to the software. These software updates (which will be released every few days) will ensure that your experience with Markup is as seamless as possible. Please as this is beta software please take notes as you are marking up just in case the worst should happen.
